2020-21
Our Inside/Outside Season

This season – our forty-fourth – we will begin inside with some slammin' live stream productions and then, we hope, venture outside into theaters again. Along the way we present the hottest and latest in diverse LGBT stories, with an emphasis on the stories of African-American and Latinx individuals. Please join us for an adventurous and topical season.

OVERLOOKED LATINAS

Written and Performed by Tina D'Elia

Directed by Mary Guzmán

November 13 – 22, 2020

Butch dyke Angel Torres thinks she's having one of the best days of her life. She's gaining buy-in from an NBC producer to sign onto her show highlighting legendary Latinx movie stars. Enter the femme fatale creating chaos with Angel's wife and Angel's life.

A Live-Stream Presentation

ALLIGATOR MOUTH/TADPOLE ASS

Written by J. Julian Christopher

Directed by Richard Mosqueta

December 4 – 13, 2020

A twistedly queer memory play about a troubled man in 1985 looking for answers at Miss Chelley's Fortune Shop. He connects with a young man working there: they cruise and dance their way through the past leading them to a dangerous night of improper role play.

A World Premier Commission by an Incisive Latinx Playwright

THE REVIEW, or How to Eat Your Opposition

Written by Donnetta Lavinia Grays

January 22 – 29, 2021

Dana has just written a blog review questioning the artistic integrity of Naomi, an iconic African-American visual artist. Naomi reaches out to Dana and the stage is set for a sexy, emotional, and intellectual game of football between critic and artist.
